ELECTRIC MESSIAH

Electric Messiah came together through each of the individual members playing live together at different times, starting somewhere around 2011. Jason and JP shared the stage multiple times in different bands but had not actually played together, they had discussed a few times jamming and possibly writing songs, so they put their feelers out for the right members to start a new band with the focus being all original music. Around that time Michael was leaving Missing Persons and moving to Las Vegas. He knew J.P. and would periodically fill in on drums for J.P.'s band, Vinyl Tattoo. Soon thereafter J.P.

asked Michael about working on original material. Michael was very interested and was brought into the band. David and Jason met via an internet message board for musicians, and had been talking about working together over the summer of 2013, when David made the move to Las Vegas. After moving to Las Vegas JP, Jason and David were all booked to perform at a benefit show with their respective bands. At that point they all started putting the pieces of puzzle together to form Electric Messiah. Each member of the band has a unique fanbase that they were able to bring to the project from the get go.
